-Spectator Notes-

We were interested to note the other day that an unfortunate salesman was arrested in Pacific Grove for selling Bibles. Well now, it seems as though this might be too severe a treatment for a man just trying to spread the Gospel.

Less Hannah now has his second and third products on the market. Now that his So Help Me Hannah poison oak remedy has caught on, he has introduced an astringent face cream and a cream lotion for hands. Early reports indicate that they are being as well received as his famous early product. Pretty soon local medecine cabinets will be full of various So Help Me Hannah jars to battle the sundry ailments that flesh is heir to.

Nancie Brown, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Brown of Hatton Fields has been awarded the two-year Photoplay scholarship to the Pasadena Playhouse. One such scholarship was awarded in a nation wide contest involving thousands of girls. The contest, which started months ago, ended Tuesday night with auditions at the Pasadena Playhouse. Four finalists, among them Nancie, were included. Judges of the final test which was a reading of an unfamiliar script, included such Hollywood notables as Jimmy Stewart, Barbara Stanwyck, Dore Schary, Loretta Young and Mark Robeson.

The scholarship amounts to approximately $4000. All expenses at the school are included as well as living expenses with some personal spending money.

Nancie is a graduate of Carmel High School and has been attending Stanford University.

The party at El Nido introducing Larry Allen turned out to be quite a soiree. Various Peninsula notables enjoyed the martinis and hors d'oeuvres served. Larry himself sometimes looks as though he has three arms - playing the piano, vibraharp, and maracas at the same time.

- - - - - - - -

Speaking of El Nido, Jimmy and George have added a parakeet to add to the confusion cause by the very vocal Gordo - - but the little bird hasn't been holding up his end of the conversation. So when the boys are tending bar, she is usually sitting on the shoulder of one listening to the talk and picking up conversation.

D.D. Watson, state real estate commissioner, is being honored at a party tonight given by the Carmel Board of Realtors at Rancho Del Monte. He is down here on vacation.

Bert Heron, Carmel's "elder statesman" (he hates that characterization, saying "I can still appreciate a weel-turned ankle,") turned out in the traditional full regalia at the opening night of "The Women" at the Forest Theatre. Bert is able to look back on the full 40 year life of the Forest Theatre. He was there when it was conceived, and he is a guiding force in it today. The Spectator salutes Elder Statesman Heron.

The O.W. Irwins are just back from a three weeks trip to Vancouver and other Canadian points. They went by boat to the port, then went inland to Banff and Lake Louise. They pronounced the trip a success.

BUSINESS ASSOCIATION TAKES UP AGAIN THE THORNY PARKING ISSUE

The Carmel Business Association has voted to keep pressing for off-street parking. The Association now will take the initiative in establishing an assessment district to finance the purchase of parking lots.

The problem was passed back to the businessmen by the City Council after the Council decided it could do nothing with the issue that the businessmen originally passed to them. Thus, if the businessmen want public, off-street parking, they will have to see to the matter themsleves.

At the quarterly meeting of the C.B.A. this week, the membership voted unanimously to establish a parking district, the details of which will be worked out by the traffic committee of the group.

Originally, this committee obtained an option for the purchase of the M.J. Murphy lumber yard at the corner of Ocean and Junipero. This option was turned over to the council with the proviso that the council would find a way for the city to make the $117,000 purchase. After study and considerable backing and filling, the council decided it could do nothing and handed the problem back.

Now the traffic committee of the C.B.A. will attempt to establish a district. This involves setting the boundaries of the proposed district - it may include just the business area, the business area plus the fringe around it, or the whole town. Then 20% of the value of the property within the boundaries must be represented on a petition approving the district. If not more than 49% of the area involved protests, then the district is automatically formed.

The district, like any other, is governed by a board of directors - in this case probably the council. The board has the right to tax the district to raise necessary funds.

SANITARY BOARD GETS VOTE OF CONFIDENCE

The lack of votes in the Carmel Sanitary District election Monday probably can be taken by the board to be a resounding vote of confidence by the community. A total of .33 votes were cast - incumbents Clayton B. Neill, Keith B. Evans, and Stanley Pedder winning unopposed.

The board, which includes Chairman Lee O. Kellog and Allen Knight, has handled the district's problems with a minimum of pain to the taxpayers. The extensive expansion program, forced by the growth of the district, has been largely on a "pay as you go" basis. Through efficient management the district has been able to put aside current revenues for future expansion.

The lack of interest in the election shows clearly that the people in the district are satisfied with the board's operations.

EXAMINATION FOR P.O. JOB ANNOUNCED

The U.S. Civil Service Commission has announced an examination for appointment to the positions of Substitute Clerk and Carrier in the Carmel Post Office. The basic rate of pay for substitutes is $1.615 an hour. Appointments are usually made to substitute positions and promotions made to regular positions according to seniority of appointment.

Applicants must actually reside within the delivery zone of the Carmel, California Post Office, or be bona fide patrons.

No experience is required. Applicants must qualify in a written test.

Further information and application card form 5000-AB may be obtained from the Regional Director, Twelfth U.S. Civil Service Region, Room 128, Appraisers Building, 630 Sansome Street, San Francisco, California, or from the Commission's Local Secretary, Fred Strong, located at Carmel Post Office, and must be on file with the Regional Director not later than the close of business on October 15.

BIG CROWD GOES TO JAMBOREE AT RANCH

The "Ike Jamboree" last night at the Mission Ranch was a sell-out with about 1,000 participating in the fun. William Hall, all-around entertainer from Hollywood, directed the show which included vaudeville, the latest fashions, music, dancing, singing and politics.

Bert Dienelt, proprietor of the Mission Ranch, said that Hall will stay on for a limited time at the night spot.

rity of Valley residents favor the development of the present road rather than a completely new construction west of the entrance to the village.

At present two plans are under consideration by county officials. Plan A would proceed directly west from the village and link up with the present highway at the Ford Road intersection. This road would cut through the south end of the Tularcitos School property. Plan B would see the widening, and general improvement of the present Valley Road.

The improvement of the highway from Ford Road to the Country Club is included in both plans, but Plan B seems to have been less ruthless in cutting property along the right-of-way.

The rest of the road, from the Country Club to the Los Laureles Grade, will be widened and improved along the present right-of-way under both plans.

As neither plan represents a thoroughly engineered route, it can be expected that modifications will be made to allow for the least amount of damage to property on the middle section.

The crux of the dispute lies in the first section west of the village.

Those who favor Plan B, improvement of the present road, center their arguments around the lack of necessity for the more costly Plan A, the desireability of keeping the highway away from the school, and maintanance of the beauty of the Valley Road.

Plan B supporters say that if the road is to be improved it should be improved right - a wide, straight highway. Although they do not proclaim it, they also favor the plan because its adoption may enhance the value of property they bought along the right-of-way for speculation.

We feel that Plan B is the best solution for the improvement of the Valley Road. With proper modifications, this alignment can be followed to allow free and safe passage of cars and still keep property damage at a minimum.

Keeping the new road as far away as possible from the Tularcitos School is highly desireable. This property, owned by all the tax payers in the district, should be protected. Also, following the present route will make an unquestionably more attractive final road.

An Editorial—

It would appear that the alignment of the Carmel Valley Road from the Los Laureles Grade to the Village will be settled soon. Of the two plans, it appears to us that the majo-

"CAMILLE" AT FIRST THEATRE TONIGHT

"Camille" opens tonight at California's First Theatre, State Monument, Monterey, and will run through the week-end and week-ends following.

Directed by Lydia Markow, the title role is played by Sue Lowry, with Said Riza as Armand, her lover. Others in the outstanding cast include Madeline Hicks, Jack Kidwell, Frank Murphy, Alexander Merivale, Sally Bartolini, Eleana Block, Barbara Glover, and Mel Isenberger. Bruce Lowry, who so distinguished himself as the professor in "Way Down East," emcees the French Revue which will follow "Camille" as the olio, La Maye Isenberger, Lenore Shager, Pamela Beales and Pat Nagle appear in the Revue, in addition to the cast proper.

The famous "Camille," which has held the stage for three-quarters of a century is produced by the Denny Watrous Management, costumes are designed and executed by Rhoda Johnson; curtains are painted by Erica Franke; lighting is by Kay Knudsen, Richard Johnson is stage technician, assisted by Richard Du Brau, Eleanor Kidwell is the pianist.

A Review of "THE WOMEN"

Clare Boothe's superficial, though entertaining, examination of low jinks among high society, "The Women," was given a lavish production last week-end at the Forest Theatre.

With imaginative sets by Erica Franke and a wardrobe display guaranteed to make any woman dissatisfied with her present attire, the play was a visual, if not always an auditory, delight.

Shining brightly in the large, all-female cast was Betty Fowlston as the malignant Sylvia. She conveyed excellently the shallow quality of the character and her acid delivery gave added punch to the slings and arrows she constantly loosed on her erstwhile friends. Hers was a very consistent, well-integrated performance and it is this reviewer's opinion that she walked away with the show.

Another performer who made the most of her many funny lines was Naomi Feder as the perpetually enciente Mrs. Phelps Potter.

One of the play's funniest scenes was given added humor by Helen Weston and Frances Brewer, as Jane, the maid, and Maggie, the cook, respectively. Jane's high-pitched Alice-in-Wonderland delivery made a perfect foil for the disenchanted Maggie's gravel tones which were as low as her opinion of all woman-kind.

Suzanne Armstrong did very well with the part of Miriam Aarons, the worldly-wise and practical girl who regarded a man's wife as only a temporary impediment to her plans.

As Mrs. Moorhead, Ruth Velissaratos was warmly sympathetic and avoided the bathos almost implicit in her lines.

Cast in the leading role of Mary, (Mrs. Stephen Haines), Barbara Norberg gave an unfortunately uneven performance. As much of the play's effectiveness and practically the whole of its plot is dependent upon the sympathy created by this character; it was a costly error in casting so far as the show is concerned. The character never rang true and was never the same in two scenes. One was left with the feeling that Stephen would have departed, Crystal or no Crystal.

Nancy Stover was handicapped by her youth in the role of the aforementioned Crystal. One couldn't quite fancy her as a hard-hearted husband stealer.

As little Mary, Mrs. Haines' daughter, Pamela Beales did a fine job, and as Olga, the gossipy manicurist, Peg Miner was a standout.

Cole Weston's direction was highly competent and things were kept moving at a fast pace.

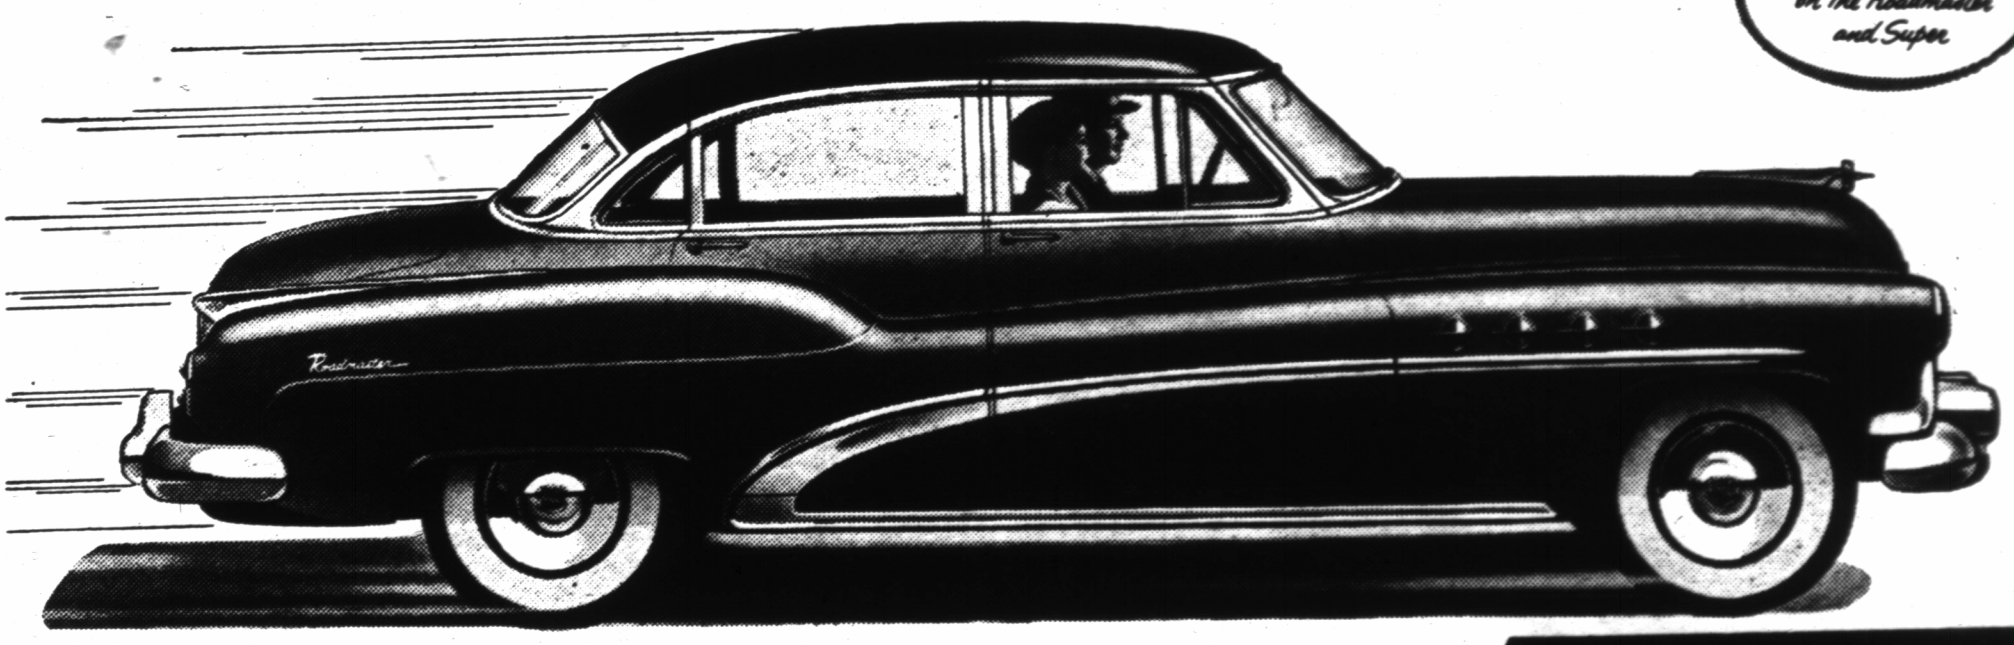
PARDON MY GUST!



BENEATH that big broad bonnet is the reason for this headline.

It's a four-barreled automatic carburetor—Airpower by name—which has a way of gulping in what the dictionary defines as "a sudden blast of wind" when extra power is needed.

And the way this gorgeous performer can step out as this occurs is something you'll always remember.

For ordinary driving, two barrels are all you need—and two barrels are all that are working. They give you an extra thrifty flow of fuel for round-town cruising.

When extra power is wanted in a hurry—the "reserves" swing into action—feeding extra fuel and extra air in an ever-thrifty mixture, which delivers the greatest horsepower in Buick history.

This is one of many distinctions that endear ROADMASTERS to fine-car owners.

It's a car as rich in finish as it is in power—a car of expansive room—restful silence—level in gait—beautifully responsive to your mood and will.

And it offers the effortless ease of Power Steering* especially engineered by Buick to save your strength in parking and slow-motion maneuvers, and still let you feel a proud sense of command and a sure sense of control on the highway.

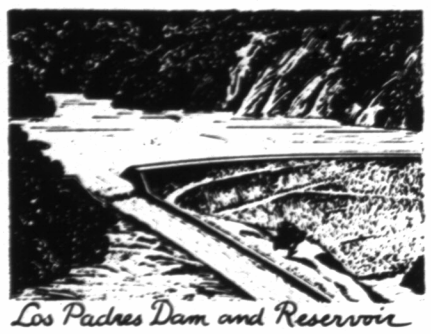
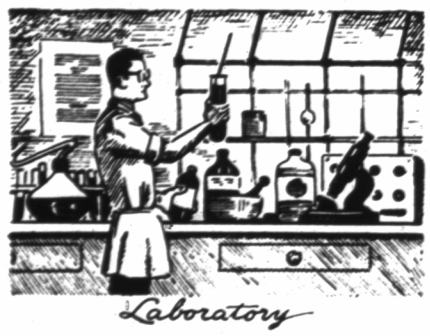
Water from the Wilderness



Los Padres Dam and Reservoir

San Clemente Dam and Reservoir

Filter Plant



Laboratory

The Monterey Peninsula is especially favored in the matter of water supply. The Carmel River drains one of the most productive watersheds in the state, an area within the Los Padres National Forest covering some 126 square miles. Peninsula water comes from the wilderness, true mountain water of the finest quality.

The first storage unit is Los Padres Reservoir. Six miles downstream is a second reservoir, San Clemente Lake. Just below San Clemente is a filter plant through which the entire water supply is passed to be clarified. To guarantee the safety of the water you drink, laboratories are maintained for periodic bacteriological analyses.

To bring safe, filtered water from a source so far away and over such rough ground requires a large investment in plant. The amount of investment money represented in the three installations pictured here, for instance, is more than $2,000,000; the total plant investment being approximately $7,500,000. To maintain a safe, dependable water supply for your daily needs, rates must be sufficient to return adequate earnings on this investment, for without adequate earnings the new capital required for the development of the system cannot be obtained.

Think of this... next time you open a can

You open a can . . . or two or three . . . and in a matter of minutes there's an appetizing, nourishing meal on the family table.

But did you ever stop to think that this simple act—duplicated 574 times a year by the average family—is helping create jobs right here in California? Yes, the can has helped everybody to eat better. And as a result, thousands of people here in California are profitably at work.

Out of this modern container for food have come jobs for farmers and farm workers, for canners and their employees, for railroad men and truckers, for storekeepers, and those who make the cans at American Can Company's nine plants in California.

American Can Company's manufacturing activities in California — and our work with canners throughout the State—show how an industry, in developing a market for what it sells, helps communities all over America.

When the Church of the Wayfarer dedicates its new Youth Building this week end, it will in a sense, be a tribute to the enterprise and efficiency of the church's pastor, Dr. K. Fillmore Gray, who came to Carmel in 1940.

A doctor of theology, Gray was pastor of an Oakland congregation when he was invited by the congregation of the Wayfarer to come to Carmel. He had previously taken his master's degree at Boston University, and held parishes in Denver, Oakland and Mill Valley as a Methodist minister when he came to the Wayfarer, which is inter-denominational.

A native Californian, Dr. Gray was born in Hollister, and moved to San Jose as a youngster. He went through schools, including San Jose State there, and then went to Boston University where he took studies in theology. From there he went to Mill Valley as pastor of a church, and on to Denver, where he concurrently attended Iliff School of Theology and acted as pastor of a Denver church. His first appointment after that was to St. Stephen's in Oakland, where he again got in double harness and acted as church editor of The Oakland Tribune in addition to his church work.

It was at Boston University that he met his wife, Dorothea, whom he married in 1937. They were both students there. When they were married, in North Hollywood, Dorothea's father, who is also a minister, performed the ceremony.

There are two Gray children, Stephen who is 9 and Stanton who is 6. Mrs. Gray is active in PTA, AAUW and the Carmel Women's Club. Dr. Gray's activities lead him into many community affairs, in addition to which he is a Rotarian and Son of the American Revolution.

The Wayfarer, under the Gray's, has grown from a single Sunday service, into a double service church, and with the addition of the youth building, has doubled its floor space. The only salaried person in organization when he joined it, Gray's church now has 6 salaried employees, the most recent of whom is Miss Nelle C. Wiley who is Director of Religious Education.

A most vital part of the community, the Church of the Wayfarer finds in Dr. Gray and his family a most vital spirit for growth...a growth to which the youth of Carmel will be materially grateful from now on.

SPORTS CAR CLUB VOTES APPROVAL OF BY-LAWS

Club by-laws were approved and adopted by the membership of the Pebble Beach Sports Car Club this week. A club insignia, designed by Al Wintringham of Carmel, was also adopted by the group.

Because permanent officers will not be elected until next month, the club named two more temporary officials. Clyde Young, of Pebble Beach, was named vice president and Bob Baird of Carmel, chief marshall. Other temporary officers are Bill Rapier, president, and Ed Haas, secretary.

The next club event will be a run to Lodi Sunday where a group will enter the parade held in conjunction with the National Grape and Wine Festival.

MEDICAL CORPS VETS MAY QUALIFY AS NURSES

Veterans who have had one year of appropriate experience in the Medical Corps may qualify for a state license as a vocational nurse without a special examination, according to Claude S. Estill, Veterans' Service Officer.

He passed on this information from the Board of Vocational Nurse Examiners in Sacramento which calls attention to an enactment of the State Legislature last year.

"Briefly," Estill said, "A veteran may be licensed as a vocational nurse if he has completed a basic course of instruction given in any branch of the armed forces, together with one year of experience on active duty as a hospital corpsman; and if he has an honorable discharge from the service. Proof that he possesses the necessary qualifications will be based on his service and discharge records."

He stated that application forms needed for applying for a license to practice as a vocational nurse are available at 599 Pacific street, Monterey.

SAN JOSE REGISTRATION

at Carmel Valley Art Gallery, at White Oaks Inn, includes artists Frank Meyers, Laura Maxwell, the late William McGlynn, Arthur Hill Gilbert, William Watts, Richard Lofton, Leslie Emery, Catherine Sideneck, and Abel Warshawsky. The hanging will be sometime this week.

What were Rosie Henry, of The Cracker Barrel Henrys, and Bob Ford doing in a Rolls Royce? Can't figure whether it's groceries or rustling that's so profitable. . .Whichever it is, Boys, cut little Jo O'Dell in on some of it next time. I can use it.

My vote for the worthy cause of the week is the new parish house for Father Lochran of Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church. We up here who have assisted in so many worthy causes might pause to recall that it's getting cold now, and living in a cow shed is not too pleasant. Please Harold O. Sand and ask what you can do to help. This too, is a Valley must. As Mr. Sand says, "We, oursleves, live in warm comfortable houses, and we wish to provide equal quarters for our Priest."

GARDENING FOR HEALTH AND HAPPINESS

By CHARLES W. DELANEY

CARNATIONS:

This coastal area is a natural for carnations. There are a number of kinds, but we have had excellent results with the large flowering variety. They are easy to grow, producing flowers in a diversity of colors and they bloom over a long period of time.

You can grow them from seed, by cuttings, or layering. Plants are available at the nursery. From these they can be multiplied by cuttings. A branch at the base is gently broken off - it should be 4 to 6 inches long - and immediately placed in fairly coarse river sand. Keep them moist, not wet, in a shaded place. In about three weeks, roots will form. Then plant them in light, sandy loam in pots. When they have grown five or six inches, cut back the tops and transplant to the next-sized pot. For soil use 1/3 each of loam, sand and a well-rotted manure, with a heaping teaspoonful of bone meal.

Carnations thrive in loose sandy soil, slightly on the alkaline side. It is not wise to use large pots in planting cuttings - the smaller pots keep the root system in balance with top growth.

When the plant seems large enough to take care of itself, plant it in the garden. Plant them fairly close, so the neighboring plants support each other. The mature plant is inclined to sprawl all over the place so it is best to stake them for support.

If it is possible, plant them where they are in afternoon sun, as the morning sun sometimes bleaches the dew covered flowers.

Enemy pests are relatively few. Aphis and green fly occassionally attack the flowers, but the usual contact spray will eliminate these enemies.

Over-watering is not needed. Just keeping the ground moist is sufficient.

We have had excellent results with carnations. Although the plant has very little decorative value in the darden design, the abundance of flowers makes it worthwhile.

GARDEN DUTIES THIS WEEK

FUCHSIAS require watering and feeding with sheep manure, mixed with peat, fish emulsion or a mild chemical fertilizer.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS are heavy feeders. Use a mulch of barnyard fertilizer s pread around the drip line and then soak the soil thoroughly.

DAHLIAS - spent flowers should be cut out. Fertilize as above and if leaves are chewed full of holes, spray with lead arsenate.

BEGONIAS require frequent watering and liquid fish emulsion. Begonias have not done so well for us this year. It is probably our fault although we have not found the reason or the errors we made in growing them.

ROSES:

We have tried to explain summer pruning - cutting off blossom stems to a healthy leaf with the bud shoot on the outside. They should be fertilized now using milorganite, sewage sludge, or a liquid fertilizer. Work these into the soil, not too deep, so you do not injure the roots. Then water heavily as this will bring out flowers until December. Spray every 10 to 14 days, using a good all-purpose spray.

Potted plants will soon have to be re-potted, adding bone meal, some sheep manure and peat moss mixed with sand or compost.

AFRICAN VIOLETS:

African violets may be planted in Black Magic and watered from below with Ortho.gro. Never allow water to touch the leaves. Every grower of African Violets has his own method of growing them and no single method is the last word. If you get results, that is all that matters.

Since 1934, we've been expanding our system to bring telephone service to the Columbia Basin area.

When the Columbia Basin needed telephones

Making a desert blossom meant building a complete, new communications system

Twenty years ago, much of central Washington was sagebrush wasteland. Then came the Columbia Basin project with its plans for a huge dam and thousands of miles of irrigation canals. Right from the beginning, one of the important "tools" needed was telephone service. And we began, even before a yard of earth was moved, to create a new telephone system in the desert. We've invested hundreds of thousands of dollars to build the new facilities in the Columbia Basin ...an investment which will mean much to the West and to the nation. For it is helping turn barren land into rich, food-producing farms.

Highway mobile telephones have been helping contractors and engineers build a network of canals over the vast area. In 1934, we put a private line circuit from Coulee Dam to Ephrata. Today the dam itself is webbed with miles and miles of telephone lines ... a nerve system over which practically all operations are controlled. And throughout the Basin area we've been building huge amounts of telephone facilities to take care of its amazingly rapid growth. In Ephrata, for instance, three operators handled all calls in 1942. Today, although dial equipment handles local calls, 25 operators are needed. In Moses Lake, there were 66 telephones in 1935. Today there are more than 2000 ... and the real growth still lies ahead. Eventually, irrigation water will reach more than a million acres. And we'll keep doing our best to see that the people who move there will have telephone service equal to that in other areas we serve here in the West.

Your telephone is one of today's best bargains

Throughout the West, the Columbia Basin telephone story has been told in hundreds of rapidly growing communities. And, fast as the West's growth has been, the telephone has grown at an even faster rate...twice as fast in the territory we serve. For at today's prices, the telephone is so economical more people can afford it... so useful, more people want it.
